Our mission

Omni-channel information security for sustainable business development

CONFIDENCE

We let our technology speak for itself and provide fully-featured versions of our products to our clients for free trials. This shows our confidence in the product and helps to get down to business in every deal, instead of going through multiple rounds of marketing meetings and sales presentations. This makes the decision making process for our clients completely transparent and efficient. Besides, during this proof of concept stage our clients get acquainted with their future account managers and support, and complete in-depth info-security training.

Our mission

Omni-channel information security
for sustainable business
development

CLIENTS ARE ON THE TEAM

When developing new features and products, SearchInform looks to clients for business insights. Usually, we estimate the cost of additional development taking into account the preferences of all groups of our clients. SearchInform work with customers on site, in our training center and remotely. We regularly run interactive webinars for our leads and clients, participate in the industry events and exhibitions in order to have a keen sense of the pulse in the community.
